HealthFrame™ automatically uses its knowledge of your specific health information to build your custom medical reference library.

HealthFrame™ Calendar

Your custom medical reference library will point you to relevant information about your family's health information such as conditions, medications, immunizations, and treatments.

Access more detailed medical information on the internet, from trusted websites such as the U.S. National Library of Medicine.

The health information you need; the way you need it

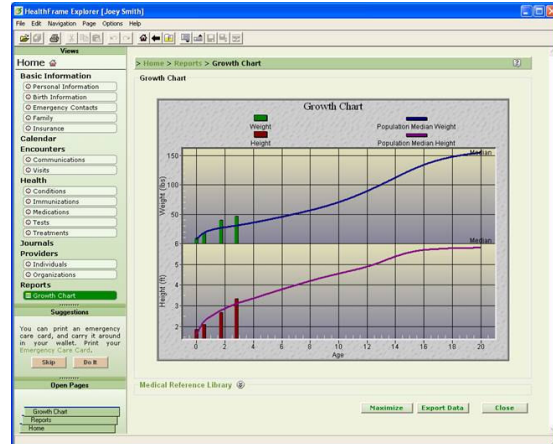

Your health information is typically reviewed by many different individuals besides yourself: medical doctors, nurses, nutritionists, personal trainers, summer camp administrators, health insurers, employers, pharmacists, etc.

Each one of them has a different need to view a subset of your medical information. Each of them has a different depth of medical knowledge and an expected jargon.

HealthFrame™ provides a number of reports and mechanisms that empower you to make that information available in an appropriate format, using the appropriate level of medical information and terminology:

- ✓ Camp and school forms
- ✓ Growth charts
- ✓ Cholesterol chart
- ✓ Emergency card
- ✓ Family history report

✓ and much more...
